Hot rod heaven

REVHEADS and car enthusiasts flocked to the Back to Basics car show in the underground car park of the Liverpool Megacentre on the weekend.

The car show, the first of its kind in Liverpool, displayed about 70 vehicles of all makes and models.

Organised by the Australian Street Rod Federation (ASRF), the Back to Basics show is a national event.

Car show organiser Vlad Zrinski said the show attracted a good-sized crowd but the extreme heat kept many people away.

"Hot rods are a different breed of cars, but you don't need to spend thousands of dollars on them," Mr Zrinski said.

"This event is for guys who usually don't win trophies, those who took care of their cars in the 1980s and are proud of them."

Favourites of the display included a candy bronze

1932 Ford Highboy Roadster and a 1928 bright yellow Roadster.

About $500 was raised for Miracle Babies, a support branch of Liverpool Hospital for premature and sick newborns and their families.

The Federation is planning a second event in August and Mr Zrinski, who is known by his mates as "Flash Vlad" for his bright cars, is hoping for an even bigger and better event.

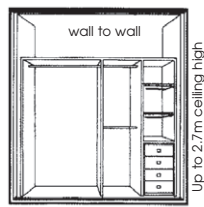

"We've had a great response and we'd like more participation for our next show," he said.
